Q: jQuery clickable links within an iframe I need some help with iframe links in a jQuery script, I cannot see how to fire a click event for the the links within the iframe. Thanks A: I have a trick that works, but I haven't bothered testing it thoroughly. `$(frame).live('click', function(){ $(frame).contents().find('a').click(); });` A: I would suggest using ajax and live() to trigger the click. `$(frame).live('click', function(){ $.get(URL, function(data) { $('#divContent').html(data); }); });` Or just if you want to trigger the click on the link `$(frame).live('click', function(event){ window.location = $(event.currentTarget).attr('href'); });` A: I always use this method but it relies on a link in the iframe. If I can't link in the iframe I use this method. You will still need a link in the iframe to be clicked. `var ifrm = $(iframe); //use jQuery ifrm.contents().find("body").append("Click"); //$(document).ready() method ifrm.contents().find("body").append("Click"); //normal link ifrm.contents().find("body").append("Click");` Q: Using operator template for template function I want to restrict the methods for the operators to use only certain operators (for example, int or double). If that operator is not available, another one should be used. For example: `#include #include template T My_operator(U t1, U t2) { printf("%d %d = %d", t1, t2, t1 +`

Binding and functional characterisation of a transgenic rat MCR4 receptor, an insect gamma-aminobutyric acid receptor. A receptor (GABAR) for gamma-aminobutyric acid (GABA) has been cloned and sequenced from the mealworm (Tenebrio molitor). The GABAR is homologous to the insect D-stereospecific gamma-aminobutyric acid (GABAA) receptor subunit and like this receptor, it has a number of features associated with a neurotransmitter receptor, including amino acid sequence homology to other ion channels. Additionally, the receptor is capable of binding both neurotransmitter ligands and the discriminatively subunit-selective antagonists SR95531, SR95531A and SR95531C. We have now transfected the MCR4 cDNA into HEK293 cells and raised a polyclonal antibody to the receptor in order to examine the GABAR pharmacologically and to attempt to raise monoclonal antibodies to the receptor. Immunofluorescence experiments on transfected HEK293 cells reveal a punctuate membrane localisation of GABAR when co-expressed with MCR4. The binding of [<sup>3</sup>H]GABA by intact HEK293 cell membranes expressing GABAR was saturable and of high affinity. Furthermore, when radiolabelled GABAR was incubated with the membrane fraction of homogenised mealworm, intact protein was detected by immunoblotting. An antibody raised against the mealworm GABAR was used to immunoprecipitate the GABAR from the mealworm membrane fraction. `conv_3x3_relu2 (Conv2D) 0.441 Dropout (D) 0.5`
